

Skills for Growth

Get ahead with our people-focused organisation review

What is it?

Skills for growth is a FREE service for small organisations with between 5 and 250 employees.

Delivered alongside Skills Development Scotland, Skills for Growth is a diagnostic service designed to help you get the best out of the skills of your workforce in order to meet organisation objectives.

This is for your organisation if:

Skills for Growth is ideal for growing organisations and those with plans for future growth.

What are the benefits?

We work with organisations to:

- Discuss and identify organisation priorities, objectives and challenges
- Match these objectives to their people and your current skills
- Identify current and future skills requirements
- Produce a People and Skills Action Plan aligned to organisation objectives
- Identify appropriate training courses
- Maximise any public sector support that is available

What difference will this make to your organisation?

- Increase performance by working to people's strengths, resulting in a more motivated and engaged workforce
- Build confidence to invest in training and development that is focused on where it matters most
- Attract the right people by recruiting for the skills that you might not already have in the organisation
- Manage change and introduce innovative workplace practices
- Support your people in understanding how they contribute to organisation success
